The screenshot shows the BMJ website main page. At the top, there is a navigation bar with the 'thebmj' logo and several menu items: 'covid-19', 'Research', 'Education', 'News & Views', 'Campaigns', 'Jobs', 'Archive', 'For authors', and 'Hosted'. A search bar is located on the right side of the navigation bar. Below the navigation bar, there is a section titled 'At a glance: News and views'. This section contains three main articles, each with a thumbnail image and a title. The first article is a 'Feature' titled 'The BMJ Appeal 2023-24: The Syrian health workers pulling 24 hour shifts to keep their maternity hospital open'. The second article is an 'Opinion' titled 'Exploring together the emotional impact of the climate and nature crisis'. The third article is a 'News' item titled 'GLP-1 receptor agonists: European drug regulator asks makers for evidence of self-harm'. There are also two other 'Opinion' articles: 'Climate action should learn from building design' and 'New Zealand reverses landmark tobacco controls'.
